

Prof. Dr. Zhen-Feng Chen

He obtained Doctor Degree of Science from Nanjing University of China (2001), and as visiting professor worked with Professor Chris Orvig in the British Columbia University of Canada (2006-2007). He is full Professor for Medicinal Chemistry, Guangxi Normal University, China. He is Supervisor for Ph. D and Master Graduate Program. He is Administrative vice-Director of State Key Laboratory for Chemistry and Molecular Engineering of Medicinal Resources of China. Owner of Program for New Century Excellent Talents in University of Chinese Ministry of Education (2004). The Second Level Owner of Program for New Century Ten, Hundred, Thousand Distinguished Talent of Guangxi of China (2004). Bagui Scholar of Guangxi Province of China (2011). Owner of Program for National Hundred, Thousand and Ten Thousand Talent of China (2015). The National Young Experts with Outstanding Contributions of China (2015). The Special Government Allowances of the State Council of China (2016). He obtained important prizes: The First Grade Prize of Guangxi Province Science and Technology Progress (Second Author, 2003); The Special Contribution Award of Guangxi Province Science and Technology Progress of China (Second Author, 2017). He mainly majors in the design and synthesis of metal-based drug based on Traditional Chinese Medicine. He has completed four Grants of NNSF of China and one 973 Project from Ministry of Science and Technology of China; two Projects of Ministry of Education Innovation Team, China. He has published more than 200 publications in J. Med. Chem., Chem. Commun., Org. Lett., Green Chem., Eur. J. Med. Chem. etc. He has obtained 26 Chinese Patents. During the past five years, he has gave 13 invitation lectures in international conferences for medicinal chemistry or bioinorganic chemistry .